Return of Dr. D. A. Cunningham, of the First Church.

HIS CONGREGATION GATHERED

Evening, and Welcomed Ilim Home Judge Cranmer and Others Made Welcoming Speeches - Dr. Cunningham, Tells of His Trip-Fine Musical Programme was a Featare.

Rev. Dr. D. A. Cunningham, paster of the First Presbyterian church, and wife, returned last evening from their trip abroad, where Dr ,Cunningham ent in the early part of the summer as delegate to the international council of the Presbyterian church of the world, held at Glasgow, Scotland, the congregation met in the lecture room of the church for the purpose of giving him a welcome, and the exercises attending it church for the purpose of glving him a welcome, and the exercises attending it were of a most interesting character. The audience filled the large room and it was made up not alone of the members of the First Presbyterian church, but friends in other churches had assembled to greet the returned pastor.

The lecture room was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns and over the pulpit were the words "Welcome Home." arranged in pines.

Bev. Dr. and Mrs. Cunningham arrived about 8 o'clock and were escorted to seats in the front of the room, after which Judge G. L. Cranmer called the meeting to order and Mr. Myron Hubbard invoked the divine blessing on the pastor and his loving wife, and the congregation. The congregation then joined in singing hymn No. 33, and at its conclusion Judge Cranmer made a brief address in which he welcomed home Dr. and Mrs. Cunningham. He said he spoke for the congregation and said words could not express the gratification felt, on their safe return. He stated that since their departure he was glad to say, there had been no Jeaths in the congregation and v-ry little sickness. Some of the members had been ull but are now on a fair road to recovery. He concluded his remarks by introducing Mrs. Flora Williams and Mrs. Peebles 'Tatum, who sang "Oh Were Thou in the Cauld Blast."

At the conclusion of the duet Judge Crammer said the meeting was open to

At the conclusion of the duet Judge Crammer said the meeting was open to all and every person present was inwited to join in the welcome. He called upon Mr. Alfred Paull, who also spoke words of welcome to the ones who had just returned. He said they had missed them since they had been gone, as pastor, friends and neighbors. They had missed Dr. Cunningham's weekly teachings, which had so built up the church, and he knew the congregation all joined with him in saying thrice welcome to the old home again.

Mr. H. W. Hughes was then introduced and rendered the beautiful solo "Ah, "its a dream."

Dr. S. L. Jepson was called upon for a few remarks and responded in a happy He said that he thought the vein. He said that he thought the musical portion of the programme so far as rendered, was the best and he wanted to hear more of it. He refered to the time that had elapsed since the congregation had gathered to say good bye to the pastor, as seeming very short, and said that he remembered on that occasion he had prepared an elegant speech, but he didn't have a chance to deliver it. He said that in his experience all his best speeches were for some reason never delivered. He described the departure of the tourists on an ocean voyage and said that none but those who had made the trip across the deep knew the feeling that comes over one as the majestic steamer pulled those who had made the trip across the deep knew the feeling that comes over one as the majestic steamer pulled away from the New York dock. He said that was the sad occasion, but the Joyous occasion was the sight of land when the ship came back. He felt sure the doctor and his wife had a valuable experience and that he knew the congregation would reap the benefit of their trip.

Miss Gutman was introduced and gave a pretty plano solo, which was much apreciated.

Rev. R. R. Bigger, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, was present and was requested by Judge Cranmer to make a few remarks. He began by saying he had come to the meeting on the invitation of Judge Cranmer and had not expected to say anything, but he was glad to be present to help welcome home again the beloved pastor and his wife. He said no person but a pastor could realize how such a meeting was to be appreciated by these good people. He said they had come back from a Journey in a good cause, and the congregation surely felt proud of the honor that had been bestowed upon Mrs. Cunningham as a representative of the woman's missions in this country. "Good Bye, Sweet Day," both in a most charming manner.

Judge Cranmer then stated that he desired to thank the ladies and gentlemen who had so kindly consented to participate in the musical portion of the programme, and said the favor was greatly appreciated by the congregation. He announced that a general hand shaking would then be in order, but before he could sit down Dr. Cunningham arose and stated that he would like to say a few words before the audience left their seats.

Dr. Cunningham Speaks.

Dr. Cunningham Speaks.

He began by speaking feelingly of the reception and words of welcome that and been uttered during the evening and said that no one could appreciate the position he and his wife were in unless they had been through it themselves. "Words cannot express our gratitude, but our hearts speak for us." said the pastor. He referred to the fact that it has been twenty years since he was installed as pastor of the First church, and it seems as though it was yesterday. How good God has been to us all in that time, and how He has watched over and cared for our beloved Presbyterlan church. The labor of going abroad to represent the courtry at the internation council is not easy. been uttered during the evening of going abroad to represent the country at the internation council is not easy.

There is a sense of responsibility about the task of representing thousands left behind, but he felt satisfied that they had done all they could to represent the church faithfully.

"We are glad once more to be back in the dear old First church, where we can once more praise God for all he has done for us. We have gathered many rich experiences which I know will be beneficial to us in the time to come. We have seen the sights of the old world and have heard many wonderful sermons, but two-thirds of the time we were gone, I was called upon to preach. In that time, I preached in the United Presbyterian church, which was organized by Dr. Chalmers in 1842. I also preached in the established church of England and the established church of England church does in England."

Dr. Cunningham spoke of hiving also/preached in the pulpit occupied by Rev. Dr. Donald MacClellan in Sections in the foreign churches, and spoke of the Geneve gown being universally worn by the ministers. He said it was appropriate and referred to the yown being worn by Calvin, Knox and Chalmers and that it was aunlike and worn by other denominations. He vaid the foreign church are were amazed to learn that the gown was not won here, as it is strictly a Presbyterian robe and every minister should wear at in the pulpit, Eastern ministers do, and there is no reason why all should not do the same. In sneaking of their voyage Dr. Cunningham said the trip going over had occupied nine days, but returning, the magnificent ocean stemmer, St. Louis, left Southampton at noon Saturday, August 22, and last Friday at 11 octock she touched the dock at New York. He said that on the same vessel was Li Hung Chang and his suite of celestials, who were met at the dock by thousands of people. He described their landing and how the crowd rushed to see the great Chinaman who had come to visit America. He spoke of Li Hung Chang as being a great man, and although a heathen, if China had a few more men like him the country would though a heathen, if China had a few more men like hin the country would advance a hundred fold. He was Suxious to introduce railroads, banks, electric lights all through his country and huthis way God was using him as a missionary for in the spread of science there is also a spread of religion.

Dr. Cunningham closed by expressing thanks for himself and wife for the welcome home and prayed God to bless all in the time to come.

After he had closed the congregation shook hands with the pastor and his

The musical portion of the programme was excellent throughout. Mr. Joseph Reese acted as accompanist for the singers.

Thereupon the secretary called "Kentucky," and a great laughing cheer went up. General Buckner was alone in the field for second place. The band struck into "My Old Kentucky Home," and the banners were brought down to Kentucky's row, while the delegates were singing the chorus.

W. F. Broder, of Russellville, Ky., came to the platform and formally place.

Man."

M. D. May, of Ohio, moved the nomination of Buckner by acclamation. A young Bay State delegate said that Massachusetts came from the home of Daniel Webster to the home of Henry Clay, and seconded the nomination, and was followed by, Griffin, of, New York.

One big shout went up and Senator Caffrey had but to make the formal announcement when the work of the convention was practically done.

For the second time the standards marched the aisles, while the band played "Yankee Doodle."

Resolutions giving the national committee the power to exercise the office of the convention, offered by Mr. Breadhead, of Missouri, were adopted.

They also instructed the committee to see that the names of candidates were placed on the ballots in every state.

Resolutions were also adopted thanking the provisional committee for its work and thanking the people of Indianapolis for their hospitality.

"You know about the governor of North Carolina and the governor of South Carolina," shouted a West Virginia delegate. "I move the convention adjourn sine die." Man."

Senator Palmer was congratulated by many delegates as soon as the convention adjourned, and there was quite a stream of visitors to his rooms at the Denison. He was also the recipient of many telegarms from all parts of the country, congratulting him on his nomination. Senator Palmer was asked if there was any doubt about his acceptance in view of the position he had heretofore taken. He said that he would accept, being in a position of the "Drafted Private in the Black Hawk War," and he began a story about Governor Reynolds, the famous warrior, and the private, but he never finished it, as the committee from the national committee then waited upon him and asked him to appear before it.

Mrs. Palmer, the wife of the senator, accompanied him to Indianapolis. She was seen after the nomination, and said she was very much pleased with the compliment which had been paid her husband, and especially gratified by the manner in which the nomination came to the senator.

Mrs. Palmer is very much younger than the senator, but they are a very devoted couple and seem never so happy as when together.
